

e-learning

Cost effective, flexible health and safety training

- Up to 80% saving compared to cost of traditional training
- Train any time, any place where there is an internet connection
- No need to take teams out of the workplace
- Protect staff from harm and your organisation from prosecution

David, EW Regional Health & Safety Manager

Employers have a legal responsibility to protect the health, safety and wellbeing of employees and EW's e-learning system helps you meet your obligations. The effectiveness and flexibility of e-learning promotes a culture of safety, reducing the likelihood of prosecution and personal injury claims.

- Delivered via the internet using videos and interactive testing.
- Individuals can take tests at their own pace, at any time, in any location where internet access is available.
- More than 40 modules covering issues for all staff such as Fire Safety to specialist modules like Asbestos Awareness.
- An annual licence grants unlimited access to all modules for a specified number of users.
- You set your own pass scores.
- Certificates are issued to employees on successful completion with no extra cost to retake.

Pure Gym has rapidly grown to become one of the country's leading health and fitness providers, offering unlimited 24 hour access to state of the art equipment for a monthly fixed fee.

Pure Gym has become successful because we are affordable for everyone to use. That means it is paramount to have a cost effective health and safety training programme which meets the needs of our rapidly expanding business.

EW's e-learning was the perfect solution as it enabled us to train and develop our staff very easily via a user-friendly and reliable system. Provided there's internet access, it can be done anywhere and at any time which suits our operational model.

Malcolm Shevlin, National Health & Safety Manager, Pure Gym
